WOMAN FARMER MAKES SUCCESS

Miss Peck of North Lyme Raises Crops that Are Profitable—Has a Stove Built in Norwich.

Miss Esther Peck of North Lyme is a striking example of what a woman can do. During the past season she raised 400 bushels of corn, enough to feed her livestock for the winter and some to sell. A flock of 36 turkeys was reared by her. She runs her farm alone.

Miss Peck shoots with a Remington rifle and displays such remarkable skill that she is often called upon to give exhibitions at her home, when friends visit her. Some of the corn raised by Miss Peck last summer was very large, many ears being found which measured 13 inches in length.

The turkey flock, which was purchased by Harrison Bros. of New London for the Christmas trade, contained some prize winners. One tom turkey weighed 28 pounds when dressed. Another weighed 30. The larger of the two was of such a temperamental that it was necessary to shoot it, the usual way of chopping its head off being considered too dangerous to the executioner.

In Miss Peck's kitchen is a wood burning stove built in Norwich in 1883 and as good a "baker" as can be found in those parts. A horse which was driven by Miss Peck in her youth died last week at the age of 39. It had not been out of the barn in fourteen years. The animal's grave will be suitably marked.

Joseph Walton of Darklands, Swadlincote, Burton, who has just retired to spend the evening of his life in a home next to that in which he was born, has achieved the remarkable record of working full time in a coal pit when close on 90 years of age. He has worked as a miner for about 70 years. He remembers the time when colliers worked 12 hours a day for half a crown, and he was one of the first to join the Miners' association. Walton was one of a family of 17, and has two octogenarian brothers living—London.

$10,000 EXTRA FOR WESTERY

Addition to Christmas Spending Money as a Result of Mechanic Savings Bank Liquidation—Liquor Cases Continued—Exemption from Taxation of Clark Thread Mills Expires—Ice Cutting Begun.

The payment of a 10 per cent. dividend to depositors by the Mechanic Savings Bank came as an opportunity time for those desiring to make Christmas gifts and increased the receipts of local merchants. Some $10,000 was added to the normal amount in circulation and much of this was expended right in the town of Westery. The dividends added to the good cheer of many Westery people.

Westerly Jungle of Tigers in annual meeting elected the following officers: Ira J. Champlin, past president; Everett C. Lawton, president; James McJarvie, vice president; Robert Knight, chaplain; Robert Knight, Jr., picket; John Schwartzman, gunner; William Collins, guide; Charles E. Berry, treasurer; Louis H. Eddy, secretary; Joseph T. Murphy, A. D. Hill and John Sherman, trustees.

At a special session of the Third district court Friday, Clerk E. G. Cundall presiding, came two liquor cases. Police Sergeant Thomas E. Brown on warrant arrested Joseph Guarino, alias Joseph Oury, charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell. Guarino pleaded not guilty. He furnished a bond of $100 for appearance Jan. 7 on the first count and $1,000 on the second count.

John P. Ahern, who was arrested by Pullman Mitchell on warrant, was charged with keeping intoxicating liquor for sale and maintaining a liquor nuisance. He pleaded not guilty. He furnished a bond of $100 for appearance Jan. 7 on the first count and $1,000 on the second count.

The exemption from taxation for ten years granted the William Clark thread mills in Pawcatuck, on an extension made to the mill, has expired, and the addition has been assessed at $172,000, which is acceptable to President Clark.

The whole of the mill is taxed for $374,000. It is the largest industry in the town of Stonington.

Christopher Taylor, aged 15, who said his home was in Westery, was arrested in Providence Thursday for failure to settle for a meal in a quick lunch room and was released on probation. That night he was picked up by a police officer and given a resting place in the police station. Friday morning he was furnished transportation to Westery and told he must leave Providence or serve a term at the state farm.

HAIRCUT FIFTY CENTS.
Reasons Why Waterbury Barbers Talk of Raising Prices—Blame the Safety Razor.

At a conference of several master barbers in Waterbury last week the question of charging fifty cents for a haircut, the advance to go into effect Jan. 1, 1910, was considered, says the Waterbury Republican. No action was taken at the time, but the barbers will interview the other master barbers in the city and endeavor to arrive at a compromise at a meeting to be held later. The present price of fifteen cents for a shave was considered high enough and there will be no change for that tonsorial work.

The owners of first class barber shops are obliged to take some such action," said the proprietor of one of the shops in the center to a reporter for the Republican, Twenty-five cents for a haircut may be high enough when there is work enough at shaving, but there has been a great falling off in customers at all barber shops in Waterbury during the last year, and men who formerly came in to get shaved never visit the shop now only when they require a haircut.

"The use of the safety razor is responsible to a large extent in this falling off of trade. Men who never thought of shaving themselves in the old days, and some who never could learn how to handle a razor, now shave at home, because they have the safety outfit. They do not care to waste the time to sit in a barber shop and the cost of the shaving outfit is soon saved when they do the work themselves.

"But it is not altogether the safety razor, which is causing a falling off in trade," continued the hairdresser. "The master barbers are inclined to place a great deal of blame upon the state barbers' commission. In old days when I was learning the trade it was a trade then—it was necessary for a young man to devote at least three years to learning the business. Now the schools for barbers guarantee to graduate a student in six weeks, and those students can get a license to operate in Connecticut by the payment of $5 to the commissioners."

GETS MILLIONS.

New Haven Road Sells Its Rights for $12,500,000 for Indebtedness to Be Met January 1.

The time for the termination of the rights to subscribe to the new stock of the New Haven Railroad company expired Monday at 3 p. m., and it is said that the rights represented a larger sum of cash than was ever before put out in payment at one time on account of securities of a New Haven corporation.

The rights paid for represent an investment of $12,500,000 which had to be planked down yesterday. The money will come into good play by the New Haven railroad in meeting its indebtedness falling due January 1.

They have quite an amount of short-term notes out and those which fall due at the beginning of the new year will be taken up with the inflow of cash. It was said the company borrowed at a very favorable rate of interest, and it is expected that the credit which the company has enjoyed.

But not all of this money will be for the taking up of notes, for some of it will go into improvements and betterment along the company's lines.

BOND OF $500 FORFEITED.

Stamford Man Accused of Buying Stolen Property.

At Bridgeport, Wednesday, Judge Ralph Wheeler in the superior court called the bond of $500 of John Burrell of Stamford, given by Giovanni Buccarel of that town. Burrell was charged with being an accomplice in a theft and also with buying stolen property.

Three colored boys from Stamford, who were given sentences in prison on Tuesday afternoon by the court, stole bags of oats from a Stamford feed store and sold them to Burrell. The latter has shipped.

A French physician has been writing in one of the Paris papers about a cure for colds which, he says, is very old, but which a long time ago fell into disuse and was practically forgotten. It is a very simple remedy, the only requirements being that the patient refrain from all liquids for a period of from 24 to 36 hours. A spoonful of tea or coffee may be taken at meals and a small glass of water at bedtime, if thirst is very great. But it is much better to do without all liquids entirely, if possible. It is not necessary, says the physician, to remain indoors while the cure is being tried—in fact, he recommends that the patient get out of doors and breathe the fresh air. He says that the "dry cure" is infallible.—The Pathfinder.

Rockville.—The following officers have been elected by the Rockville Worsteds company, recently organized in this city: President, Frank E. Weedon of Providence; vice president, Thomas M. Corcoran; secretary, Parley B. Leonard; treasurer, Edmond Corcoran; assistant treasurer, Thomas Corcoran, Jr.
